ROCKEFELLER CENTER TURNS 20
U.S. SUPREME COURT JUSTICE KEYNOTES SERIES

CLASS OF 1930 FELLOW

U.S. Supreme Court Justice
Stephen G. Breyer

Sunday
October 12
7:00 pm
Cook Auditorium
Murdough Center

Celebrating 20 years of research and educational programs in public policy and the social sciences, the Rockefeller Center opens its 2003-2004 public events program with a series of distinguished guests who have contributed significantly to the common good through their work and actions. U.S. Supreme Court Justice Stephen G. Breyer will be the Center’s Class of 1930 Fellow and keynote speaker for the fall term. He will be on campus October 12th and 13th. Nominated by former President Bill Clinton, Breyer took his seat as Associate Justice in August 1994.

After graduating from Stanford University, Oxford University and Harvard Law School, Breyer clerked for Justice Arthur J. Goldberg. He then worked as Special Assistant to the head of the Justice Department’s Antitrust Division, before becoming a Professor of Law at Harvard University and at Harvard’s Kennedy School of Government from 1967 through 1980. He worked as an Assistant Watergate Special Prosecutor in 1973, as a Special Counsel to the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1975 and as the Senate Judiciary Committee’s Chief Counsel from 1979-1980. He then was appointed as Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit in 1980, and became the Circuit’s Chief Judge in 1990.

Justice Breyer is the author of numerous books and articles in the field of administrative law and government regulation.

2003–2004 Program Theme
CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY: PERSONAL ACTION • PUBLIC IMPACT
Nobel Peace Prize Laureate Keynote Speaker for 4th Annual Not-for-Profit Career Fair

Nobel Peace Prize laureate and founding coordinator of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines (ICBL) Jody Williams will give the keynote address for the fourth annual Not-for-Profit Career Fair. She will speak about choosing a career working for the common good on Thursday, October 2 at 5:30 PM in 105 Dartmouth Hall.

Williams has written and spoken extensively on the problem of landmines and the movement to ban them, and serves as a technical adviser to the UN’s Study on the Impact of Armed Conflict on Children. Prior to starting ICBL, she worked for more than a decade to build public awareness about U.S. policy toward Central America.

The Not-for-Profit Career Fair will be held October 1st and 2nd from 12:30-4:30 PM at the Top of the Hop and in Alumni Hall. For more information, email: nor@profit@dartmouth.edu

Law & the Liberal Arts

Two distinguished speakers come to Dartmouth during fall term as part of the 2003-2004 Dartmouth Lawyers Association Law & the Liberal Arts lecture series. John Gardner, Professor of Jurisprudence at Oxford University and Professor of Law at Yale, will give a public lecture about tort law on Monday, September 29 at 4:00 PM in Rockefeller 2.

Pulitzer Prize-winning New York Times correspondent Linda Greenhouse will be the Timbers Lecturer and will speak on Thursday, November 20 at 4:00 PM in Rockefeller 2 about recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions.

ACLU President to Speak

American Civil Liberties Union President Nadine Strossen (left) will visit Dartmouth on Tuesday, October 28. Jointly sponsored with the Dartmouth Civil Liberties Union, Strossen’s public lecture is scheduled for 4:00 PM in 105 Dartmouth Hall entitled, “Protecting Civil Liberties and National Security After 9/11.”

Strossen, a New York University Law School Professor, writes, lectures and practices extensively in the areas of constitutional law, civil liberties and international human rights. The first woman to head the ACLU, she has served in that volunteer post since 1991.

Teach for America

Teach For America’s founder and President, Wendy Kopp (above), opens the Center’s 20th anniversary celebration on Wednesday, October 8 at 4:30 PM in Rockefeller 3. She will speak about how the nation can reach Teach For America’s vision that all children have the opportunity to attain an excellent education.

Author of One Day, All Children: The Unlikely Triumph of Teach for America and What I Learned Along the Way (Public Affairs, 2001), Kopp developed the idea for Teach For America in her undergraduate thesis at Princeton. It has since grown into a nationally-renowned organization with 2,500 current corps members and 6,500 alumni who serve in the nation’s neediest urban and rural public schools.

Rogoff is Brooks Lecturer

Harvard University Professor of Economics Kenneth Rogoff (left) comes to Dartmouth as the Brooks Family Lecturer on Thursday, October 30. He will give a public lecture at 4:00 PM in Rockefeller 2 entitled, “Are There Limits to Financial Globalization?”

Rogoff recently stepped down from a two-year appointment at the International Monetary Fund, where he was Economic Counselor and Director of the Research Department. While at the IMF, he was instrumental in carrying forward a broad research program on topics related to international finance and macroeconomic policy in industrialized and developing economies.

In addition to publishing extensively on policy issues in international finance, including exchange rates, international debt issues and international monetary policy, he was also awarded the lifetime title of International Grandmaster of Chess by the World Chess Federation.
Social Policy Dialogues

Exploring issues of social justice and public policy, Social Policy Dialogues brings students from diverse communities together for meals and conversation. Topics include education and equity, poverty and public housing, affirmative action, immigration, criminal justice and political participation.

For more information about Social Policy Dialogues, contact: Jeremy.Eggleton@Dartmouth.edu

---

Oxford Bound

---

Former Members of Congress to Visit

The Council for Excellence in Government is presenting a program to increase citizen confidence and participation in government.

Former Kansas Republican Representative Jan Meyers was active in state and local government for more than a decade before being elected in 1984 to the House of Representatives, where she served for 17 years.

Democrat David Skaggs served as a Colorado State Representative, before his 12 years of service in the U.S. House. They will make their presentations Wednesday, November 12 at 4:30 PM in 105 Dartmouth Hall.

---

Faith-Based & Community Initiatives

White House Office of Faith-Based and Community Initiatives Director Jim Towey (left) will speak at Dartmouth on Wednesday, November 5 at 4:30 PM in 105 Dartmouth Hall. Towey, Deputy Assistant to President Bush, has extensive governmental and non-profit experience that cuts across party lines. After heading Florida's Health and Human Services Agency from 1993-1995, he founded Aging with Dignity, a national non-profit organization. He assumed the directorship of the Office of Faith-Based Initiatives earlier this year.

---

Rockefeller Funding

for unpaid Public Affairs/ Public Policy Internships

- Federal, state and local government
- Non-governmental, non-profit organizations
- Media outlets
- International placements

Application Deadline for Winter Term Funding
Tuesday, October 29
4:00 PM • Rockefeller 206

For more information, contact:
Jill.Sevage@Dartmouth.edu

---

Pressed Into Service

"I must admit that I didn’t expect to be doing interviews on my first day at work, but I certainly wasn’t going to argue. The Bureau Chief sent me out, and I did my first interview on a trolley as I was heading down to the Wharf on San Francisco Bay... I had an incredible experience."

Daniel Preysman '04 interned with the San Francisco Bureau of The New York Times in the spring with support from a Rockefeller Public Affairs Internship Grant. While hitting the pavement for the Times, he covered stories ranging from SARS to the Iraq War—earning multiple bylines in the process. Though he had not worked as a journalist since high school, Daniel was given the opportunity to do work of substance for one of the world’s most respected papers.

---

When it comes to public policy issues, where is your passion?

- environment
- urban development
- health
- education
- international relations
- social justice
- domestic economy
- gender issues
- law and society
- science and technology

Get connected with resources that provide valuable opportunities for education, experience and career development.

Think Tanks • Government • Advocacy Groups • Polling • Political Journalism

Enroll in the Public Policy Minor

Choose a track of study that suits your interests.

The Public Policy Minor provides students a flexible tool for examining important policy questions—health, environment, education, trade or social justice, for example—from a variety of disciplinary perspectives. Students enrolled in the Minor also get invited to attend selected Rockefeller Center sponsored seminars and dinner discussions with distinguished scholars and policymakers.

For more information about requirements or enrollment, blitz Assistant Director Jeremy.Eggleton@Dartmouth.edu or call 646-2779.
Faculty Workshop Schedules

[IM] Migration & Gender
12:00–1:30 PM, Class of 1930 Room, Rockefeller

Thursday, October 2
Angelia Means, Assistant Professor of Government, Dartmouth College
"Intercultural Law: Justifying Rights to Others"

Monday, November 3
Rogai Abusharaf, Carr Center Fellow, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University
"Smoke Bath: Renegotiating Self and the World in a Sudanese Shantytown"

Health Policy
12:00–1:30 PM, Class of 1930 Room, Rockefeller

Thursday, October 23
David Cutler, Professor of Economics, Harvard University
"Your Money or Your Life: Medicine for America's Medical Care System"

Thursday, October 30
Matthew Hudson, Research Associate Professor, Community & Family Medicine, CECS
"Examining the Relationship Between Health Beliefs and Medical Decisions in the Context of Medical Uncertainty"

Thursday, November 6
Elliott Fisher, Professor of Medicine, Community & Family Medicine, CECS
"Physician Perceptions of Practice in Regions of Differing Practice Intensity"

Thursday, November 13
John Baldwin, Associate Provost for Health Affairs, Dartmouth College
"Universal Access to Rational Care"

Thursday, November 20
Denise Anthony, Assistant Professor of Sociology, Dartmouth College
"Managed Care and the Profession of Medicine"

Law & Society
12:00–1:30 PM, Class of 1930 Room, Rockefeller

Wednesday, October 15
Mark Stein, Visiting Assistant Professor of Government
"Tribute to Vice: Originalism and Original Hypocrisy"

Organizations & Strategy
12:00–1:30 PM, Class of 1930 Room, Rockefeller

Thursday, October 9
Scott Taylor, Professor of Economics, University of Wisconsin
"Trade, Tragedy and the Commons"

Thursday, October 16
Michael Greenstone, Professor of Economics, University of Chicago and MIT
"The Effects of Mandated Disclosure Laws: Evidence from the Securities Act Amendments of 1964"

Global Environment
3:00–4:30 PM, Morrison Commons, Rockefeller

Thursday, October 23
Richard Norgaard, Professor, Energy and Resources Group
"Trade and Optimal Environmental Governance"

Friday, November 7
Richard Woodward, Professor of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University
"Can Water Pollution Be Traded?"

Foreign Policy
3:00–4:30 PM, Dickey

Wednesday, October 8
Richard Lebow, Professor of Government, Dartmouth College
"Order and Security"

Wednesday, October 22
Stephen Brooks, Assistant Professor of Government, Dartmouth College
William Wohlforth, Associate Professor of Government, Dartmouth College
"International Relations Theory and the Case Against the 'New Unilateralism'"

Wednesday, November 12
Beth Simmons, Professor of Government, Harvard University

Wednesday, December 10
Branislav Slantchev, Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of California, San Diego
Although the New Hampshire presidential primary is months away, the Dartmouth campus is already awash in candidates. Students with Republican sympathies are sitting on the sidelines for now, but some Democrats and Independents are attending rallies and participating in “meet-ups,” as the presidential hopefuls hone their campaign messages and recruit volunteers. Whatever their partisan leanings, students have an important stake in the coming elections. If the steady decline of turnout among young people continues, politicians will ignore their concerns, reinforcing a downward spiral of alienation and withdrawal.

Since obtaining the franchise in 1971, 18–24 year-olds consistently have produced the fewest voters of any age cohort. Only a third participated in the 2000 presidential election, and less than one-fifth turned out for the 2002 congressional races. Both rates represent historic lows.

College students have a better record, of course, but even at highly competitive institutions, they still fall short of older voters. For Dartmouth students, the national visibility of the New Hampshire primary and the accessibility of the candidates provide the perfect opportunity to reverse the dismal trends.

Recognizing the educational potential of the New Hampshire primary to teach citizenship, the Rockefeller Center, along with other offices and student organizations, offers a range of programs to engage students in political activity. The goal is to make students aware of the link between policy choices and their options for the future and to give them the tools to become thoughtful participants in the electoral process.

Rockefeller Center Director Linda Fowler, the Frank Reagan Professor of Policy Studies, teaches in the Government Department.

Corn roasts, country fairs and general stores are a few places presidential candidates can be found in their quest for the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire primary prize. As in the past, Dartmouth is on the campaign trail. The Rockefeller Center and the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center have extended invitations to Democratic hopefuls to come to the medical facility and the main campus to talk about health policy and other pressing issues facing the nation. Conversations about hosting a town meeting-type event for all Democratic candidates are underway, and opportunities abound for students to get involved in the political process, including working on candidate campaigns and voter registration drives, joining Rockefeller’s First-Year Student Forum group and posting to the new Rockefeller Blog that will focus on events unfolding on the campaign trail.

Dartmouth students avail themselves of the excitement of the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire primary events. From left, political enthusiasts Ben Phillips ’04, Brent Reidy ’05, Clayton Smith ’05, Nick Schwartz ’05 and Anik Gandhi ’05 greet Joe and Hadasab Lieberman at a July 4th parade.
fall 2003 • public events

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 29
4:00 PM, ROCKEFELLER 2

What is Tort Law For?
John Gardner
Professor of Law, Oxford and Yale Universities
A Dartmouth Lawyers Association Program

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1 &
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2
12:30–4:30 PM, TOP OF HOP AND ALUMNI HALL

NOT-FOR-PROFIT CAREER FAIR
Jointly sponsored with Career Services

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2
5:30 PM, 105 DARTMOUTH

Notes on Working for the Common Good
Jody Williams
Founding Coordinator, International Campaign
to Ban Landmines, Nobel Peace Prize winner
Jointly sponsored with Career Services

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8
4:30 PM, ROCKEFELLER 3

How I Built Teach for America and What I Learned Along the Way
Wendy Kopp
Founder and President, Teach for America

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 12
7:00 PM, COOK AUDITORIUM

CLASS OF 1930 FELLOW LECTURE
Reflections on a Public Life
Stephen Breyer
U. S. Supreme Court Justice

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22
4:00 PM, ROCKEFELLER 3

Differences Between U.S. and Foreign Press in Reporting on Iraq
Jim Kuyper
Senior Lecturer, Department of English, Dartmouth College
Jointly sponsored with the League of Women Voters of the Upper Valley

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28
4:00 PM, 105 DARTMOUTH

How to Strike a Balance: Protecting Civil Liberties and National Security After 9/11
Nadine Strossen
President, ACLU
Jointly sponsored with the Dartmouth Civil Liberties Union

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30
4:00 PM, ROCKEFELLER 2

BROOKS FAMILY LECTURE
Are There Limits to Financial Globalization?
Kenneth Rogoff
Professor of Economics, Harvard and former Director of Research, International Monetary Fund

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5
4:30 PM, 105 DARTMOUTH

Compassion, the U.S. Constitution and President Bush’s Faith-Based Initiative
Jim Towey
Director, White House Office of Faith-Based Initiatives
Jointly sponsored with the Tucker Foundation

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12
4:30 PM, 105 DARTMOUTH

Democracy: Neither a Spectator Nor a Contact Sport
David Skaggs
Former U.S. Representative, Colorado and Executive Director of the Center for Democracy & Citizenship Program, Council for Excellence in Government
Jan Meyers
Former U.S. Representative, Kansas

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20
4:00 PM, ROCKEFELLER 2

TIMBERS LECTURE
What Got Into the Court and What Happens Next?
Linda Greenhouse
New York Times Correspondent
A Dartmouth Lawyers Association Program